It's Not Easy Being Blue

Many people thought that the Sevierville Community School would be successful, but few could have imagined just how successful it would end up being. This year the school has set a standard for itself that leaves us thinking... it's not easy being blue. We say this because we now have quite a reputation to live up to.

This year, we were named the only effective school in our area, were named a school of promise by the governor, and won championships in boys basketball, girls basketball, and quiz bowl. Our enrollment has increased steadily, and our students continue to improve academically. So now, instead of wondering if we can achieve, we must figure a way to outdo ourselves. Fhh, it's not easy being blue.

J.D. King, Chris Peters, and Josh Hoskins proudly display the medals they won at a pep assembly. School spirit is important at East, and our pep assemblies fill us with pride.

Former major leaguer and Portsmouth native Al Oliver speaks of personal pride and respect to Brooke Staggs. Al was one of several guest speakers at East this year.

Candace Cassidy takes a break from her hard work in Mr. Conzler's class. Candace was a very studious and always on task.

A group of freshmen listen intently at a school assembly. At East, school assemblies are held to increase school spirit, recognize achievements, and increase student involvement.

April Green from The Portsmouth Daily Times and Brooke Skaggs from WSAZ address a group of students on Career Day. They had a lot of great advice.

Members of the media class work on their next project. The media class started a news broadcast and had the first Tartan Idol competition this year.

Josh Hoskins takes a breather during a time-out. Tartan football players give their all on every play. Though injuries hurt them, the Tartans never gave up.

Finnie Clinger, Shawna Williams, and Maddison Brown rake leaves on the front lawn of the school. East students are always willing to help keep our school looking great.

Kenny Howell, Andrew Craft, and Zach Boyd help the cheerleaders get the students ready for the big game. Tartan fans are loyal supporters of our athletic teams.

Members of the Spanish III class display the Halloween shirts they made. Teachers at East try to find a variety of activities to keep classes fun as well as educational.

Tyler Boyd and other "cheerleaders" help the new "football players" get psyched for the game. The cheerleaders came up with several great ideas and skills for assemblies this year.

The band plays the fight song at Meet the Team. The East band is a great source of school pride.

River Days!

While waiting for the parade to begin, Annie passes the time by showing off her float. There's never a dull moment around this country girl.

It's Not Easy Being In The Spotlight

Little girls grow up watching pageants on T.V., and when they get the chance to be in one it's a dream come true. Annie Clinger's dream came true as she competed for Miss River Days.

She had car washes, long practices, and photo shoots to get ready for the big night. The day of the pageant, Annie rode through Portsmouth on her float which won 3rd place. After the parade Annie prepared for the pageant. When she walked on stage the East crowd cheered for their fellow classmate. They cheered her on throughout the whole night. Although Annie wasn't chosen as Miss River Days, she represented East the best she could. The staff and students were proud to have her on stage and in our hearts she is definitely Queen.

The contestants and Annie take in all the attention during the Sports Wear part of the pageant. Annie loved to be sporty.

Annie shows her dancing moves as she dances with the other girls. She could always get the fun started.

Annie and her escort Kenny Howell stand tall while supporting BGSL. These two did a good job of holding in the nerves.

The High School Cheerleaders give Annie their support before the parade. Our school is all about the support.

Annie is relieved after saying her speech, and flaunts her stuff hoping it will win the judges over. Annie has been ready for that moment in the Spotlight her whole life.

Annie is dressed to impress during the evening gown part of the show. Annie loves to get all the attention.

Annie is quick to think on spur of the moment, when she is asked a question. This was never a task to hard for her.

Maddison and Ashley show their school spirit after performing during intermission.

After winning 3rd place on her float, Annie is overwhelmed with excitement.

It's Not Easy Leaving

The Class of 2004 came together, for the most part, in kindergarten.

Through the years, they have added to their ranks, accepting new students as their own. The members of the class have adopted many roles during their years at East - ball player, singer, musician, leader, artist - but none of these roles has been as important as the one they prepare to leave behind -- proud member of the class of 2004.

"How many books are there?" yells Nathan Potts. Library interns were always ready to help.

Jessica King, Pam King, Heather Grooms, and Annie Clinger at homecoming. These girls were always the life of the party!

Prom King Boomer Brown shows off his innovative dance moves to Anthony Eichenlaub. Boomer, Anthony, and the rest of the senior class had a great time at prom this year.

Emily Collins, Ashley Kennard, and Ginny Odle discuss the nutritional value of their lunches. The students counted on Ms. Spears and her staff for tasty lunches all year.

Sara Oster, Brett Enz, and Lexie Allard plot revenge against their classmates for not honoring Senior Dress-Up Day. These three students enjoyed keeping traditions alive.

"It's last!" Nathan Potts and Kellie Porter seem to be saying as they clean out their locker on the last day of school. Students were happy and sad on that day.

Lindsay Luther, Ginny Odle, Heather Stevens, and Amber Crump are caught in a group hug, while Kellie Porter and Anthony Eichenlaub are in their own world. Prom gave this group more memories.

SENIORS

Kellie Porter, Ginny Odle, Pam King, and Ashley Kennard have a color guard moment on the stage. The talented guard won many awards this year.

Seniors take their time at their lockers between classes. Josh Hoskins, Bethany Ervin, Brett Enz, Emily Collins, J.D. King, and Annie Clinger take a few seconds to chat. The seniors were always on time!

Sara Oster spreads her wings on Senior Dress-Up Day. Sara spent her senior year intimidating opponents of the basketball and volleyball courts.

VO-TEC

This bunch enjoys a fun lunch with friends. It's always good having friends from your school to hang out with!

Naomi Vetter chills in the cafeteria during school. No matter what, she was always ready to make new friends.

Bryan Davis enjoys his last year at the vocational school. He will be missed when he graduates!

The students at Vo-Tec become well prepared for life and their careers. Although they miss out on a lot of things here at East, they are making memories of their own. They go to classes that equip them to succeed in the work place as well as enhance their people skills. All of the East/Vo-Tec students can have the best of both worlds. They get to study with independence and get to call themselves Mighty Tartans! No matter how much we miss these students, they will always have a place in our hearts as fellow Tartans. Vo-Tec students will no doubt be the best people in their careers and will make East High School proud.

It Isn't Easy Taking Over

For a lot of us, it is hard to believe we are where we are than the staff. Now that the year is closing and we are going to begin the senior routine, we can only really take a minute to remember the twelve years that have already come and gone.

For each of us, in his or her own way, this year has been a year of changing- changing into the people we have been striving to become. We all have our heroes, whether it's someone who fights with weapons or words, with pistols or pens. We all have those we dream about becoming and exceeding.

It seems as though our class has been more wholesome and familiar than than the others. Sort of a big (admittedly, a sometimes dysfunctional) family. This year we went to our first prom, enjoyed upperclassmen privileges (not that we did anything bad . . .), and worked our first jobs. It seems as if we are really growing up when, in all honesty, we already have-together.

It's Not Easy Learning to Drive

As the class of 2006, we have come closer to knowing what high school is really all about. At the beginning of the year we had some worries about the higher expectations that were going to be placed upon us as sophomores. We knew that it would be harder, but we also knew that it was time to step up to the challenge. Despite all of our worries and doubts, we did fine. We excelled at academics and athletics and made many memories along the way. Edging closer to the world of the upperclassmen, we are hoping to make the best of our last two years in high school. We are looking forward to being juniors and making lifetime memories with our friends. These memories will join the ones made this year-- learning to drive, taking the ACT, and having fun together.

Kara Vaught - Treas.; Karla Talbert - Vice - Pres.; Alex Shopz - Pres.; Britni McCann - Sec.

Britni McCann, Stephanie Raynard, and Kara Vaught show their football spirit. The team could always count on the support of these girls.

Amy Worthington, Shane Craig, and Mary Brown concentrate on their Integrated Algebra problems in Mr. Bradford's class. Although the students found the problems difficult, they were more than up to the challenge. Academics are very important at East High School.

Fresh out of junior high, the class of 2007 entered high school with the realization that they would be starting again at the bottom. They quickly learned that high school is a lot more complicated than junior high, from the classes to the expectations teachers have of you. New opportunities also arose, such as high school sports, quiz bowl, and mock trial. They also found that their grades now counted towards their averages, which determines class rank and, sometimes, what college they would attend. It wasn't easy realizing that what they did now could change the rest of their lives. Although it is never easy being a freshman, the class adapted well and made the necessary adjustments. Together, they made it through.

Next year we are going to high school and all we can do is hope for the best. We had fun in Junior High and we will miss it but, unfortunately we have to move on. In the upcoming year we will have to deal with smaller lockers, harder classes, and senior bullies. We want to leave Junior High with this advice "Enjoy Junior High while you can because it goes by fast and once it's gone, it is gone forever." We are excited for the beginning of next year but at the same time we are nervous and anxious.

Bump, Set, Spike, Was Never Easy

The 2003-2004 East Lady Tartan volleyball team had an exciting season. With most of their games going into three sets, there was never a dull moment. The Lady Tartans were led by first year coach Sinder Williams and the four seniors Leah Evans, Sara Oster, Annie Clinger, and Heather Grooms. The team played in style with their new updated uniforms purchased by the school. Coach Williams worked with the girls in their practices held after school.

They made many improvements through the year leading to their upset over the Lady Oaks of Oak Hill in a three set game held by East. Although the record didn't show it, the girls had a very successful season fielding two girls to play in the First Team All S.O.C. game. Receiving those honors were Sara Oster and Heather Grooms. The rest of the team will miss the departing seniors, but they will be ready to fill the spots next year.

Sierra Dupray and Bridget Bear work together to bump the ball over the net. The J.V. team always worked as one.

It's An ACE!

While the 2003-2004 Junior High Volleyball team didn't have a winning record the experience they received will never be forgotten. They were coached by Hayley Priddy and Beth Allard. These two are East High graduates and former members of the High School Volleyball team. The eighth graders are looking forward to playing on the high school level, while the seventh graders are excited for another year of junior high volleyball.

Katie, Page, and Allyson are eagerly awaiting the serve. These three were consistent in receiving the ball.

Alex Peters sets up Courtney Chamberlin for her spike approach. These two were great assets to the team this year.

Coach Allard and Coach Priddy give their team some inspiration. These first year coaches did an excellent job leading the girls.

Golf Isn't Easy

The golf team really improved from the previous seasons. Their team consisted of three rookies, two two year players and a three year player. The team took pride in their determination.

They also worked really hard to get better. Coach Shannon stated "I think our team will work hard to improve over the summer and I'm really looking forward to next year."

Some members of the golf team stand and watch their teammate drive the ball. They were very supportive to their team.

Tuff'n It Out Ain't Easy

The 2003-2004 football season was one of many twists and turns, views of promise and moments of unfulfilled potential. There were many positives that can be drawn from this season for the years ahead.

First-year head coach Mike McCafferty came onto the scene and quickly realized the potential of this senior laden group. They began the season 3-0, winning in convincing fashion. Then week four came and so did the injury bug. They showed in that game however the ability to play with, and beat a division four playoff team.

With the loss of numerous key players the Tartans had to regroup, which gave many young players valuable experience that will benefit the team in the upcoming seasons.

The Tartans do their annual ripem up tear'em up at meet the team. This was a vital part in kicking the season off.

Some of the seniors look and listen as the rest of the team is introduced. These seniors led by example.

It's not Easy Being Winners

The Junior High Tartan Football team played a hard season in which they had a winning record. This was a result of determination, hard practice, and heart. They learned hard lessons that taught them how to win and they are ready to carry that tradition on to the next season.

The defense waits on their toes for the ball to be snapped. Throughout the year, the J.R High defense always got the job done when it was needed.

It's A Cheer Thing

The Junior High Cheerleaders had a very successful year. They worked hard during the summer practicing to perfect cheers and a new dance. This year the cheerleaders had a new advisor, Ms. Heather McCoy. Ms. McCoy faced a challenge getting to know the girls at the beginning of the year, but by basketball season they were very close. Ms. McCoy has high hopes for next year.

During the River Days parade the cheerleaders use their enthusiasm to excite the crowd. These cheerleaders were never found with a dull moment.

The 2003-2004 cheerleaders dedicated a lot of time over the summer to learn new cheers and routines to up the excitement of the Tartan fans. This year the football cheerleading squad had 12 members, while the basketball squad had 10. The squad this year was lead by senior Ashley Adkins. Ashley was a four year member of the cheerleading squad, and always showed what having spirit was all about. Advisor Susie Munion was a great leader for these girls. "Experience carried the 2004 Varsity Cheerleading Squad to another successful year. The squad worked hard to keep the crowd excited, while having a lot of fun."

The swim team had many positive things happen to them during the 2003 - 2004 season. They had a lot of senior leadership and they also had a good coaching staff. Chris Peters led the swim team in points for the year and thus he became the swim team MVP. The team also had other members that acquired many points over the season. Senior members Drew Livingston, Zach Holbrook, Kenny Howell, Jessica King, and Ashley Kennard gave some great advice to other swim team members. Coach Bear is looking forward to the upcoming season, and, although losing their MVP, the coach thinks the team will have a strong year.

The 2004 Tartan basketball team started the season out with great expectations. Lead by a senior dominated class and Coach Bradfords superb coaching ability, the team achieved all these expectations and more. The Tartans won the S.O.C. for the second year in a row and made it to the district finals in the state tournament. The S.O.C. champs over came great adversity along the road of their magnificent season. Due to injuries obtained during football season, many Tartan basketball players had to play through pain and soreness. The true heart of the Tartans prevailed and they overcame these obstacles to have a season that will never be forgotten by all of those who witnessed it.

Easier Said Than Done

The 2003-2004 Lady Tartans had a very successful season. With an S.O.C. record of 9-1 the girls basketball team made history by being the only girls team at East to win four consecutive titles as well as scoring an astonishing 100 pts. against New Boston. All of these accomplishments didn't come easy though. The girls started preparing for the season last spring with open gym and weight lifting. They continued their momentum through the summer with camps and shoot-outs. During the fall the team did something no other girls team in Southern Ohio did by going to the Life Center to participate in the six week long program PEC. This course challenged the girls to increase their vertical, speed, endurance, and agility. This helped them win their most memorable S.O.C. of all. They entered the season with people not expecting them to win, and teams wanting them to fall. There were some rough spots but they all pulled together as they triumphed as the four time S.O.C. champs.

The seniors who were part of this the whole way were Heather Grooms, Sara Oster, and Leah Evans. Fellow senior Annie Clinger joined the trio for the remaining three titles. The rest of the team is ready to continue the dynasty.

Annie Clinger and Coach Monroe embrace in a hug at Senior Night. This is a good example of the relationships shared with some of the players and their coaches.

Victories Don't Come Easy

The 2003-2004 Junior High Lady Tartans had a fun season of basketball. With this season being many of the players first year of competitive basketball, you could say they handled it well. The girls were excited for each game and practiced hard so they would be prepared. A record doesn't exactly mean everything, so the team wouldn't recommend that you use that to judge how the season went. With each passing game the girls bonded together with themselves as well as with their coach. They learned vital skills that will help them survive in High School basketball. The departing 8th graders will remember the times on the court as Jr. High players, but are ready to face the challenges of Varsity level basketball. While their Jr. High coach will miss them the High School coach will welcome them with open arms.

Run Until You're Blue

The High School Track season was a successful one. With the leadership of senior Josh Hoskins and Boomer Brown all of the track team learned more discipline. The boys track team consisted of three throwers, Adam Riggs, Boomer Brown, and Corey McWharter, two runners, Josh Hoskins and Kevin Scott, and a thrower and runner, Travis Riggs. The girls team included three girls Naomi Vetter, Tiza Wilkonson, and Becky King. Coach Emmett is hoping for more people coming out and joining the track team next year.

The Junior High Track team started off on a good foot, many students came out for the team, and went to most of the practices. By the end of the season they went down, and only a few were left on the team.

They all worked hard at practices trying to improve, and set new records. Despite their rough season the team made it through, and had lots of fun along the way. The eighth graders will be looking forward to next years season on the high school team. The seventh graders will be ready for next year.

It Is Tennis Time

The 2003-2004 Tartan Varsity Tennis season was a productive season. All the players improved their game and most of them won at least one match. The leadership skills of seniors such as Adam Spears, Drew Livingston, Eric Tabor, Ashley Kennard, Greg Weddington, and Andrew Craft really helped the younger players. Adam Spears and Eric Rundquist had a good showing in tournament play. They ended the year with strong play that impressed the area teams. Coach Miller was impressed by his teams play. He has some young players coming up and he has experienced upperclassmen to lead the team next year.

Even though these guys decided to "back" out of this match, they still cheered on their teammates.

It's Not Easy Playing With So Few

The 2003-2004 Tartan baseball team faced many obstacles at the beginning of the season. Mr. Gilliland was beginning his first year of coaching with an extremely small team—only 12 players. Despite this disadvantage, the team managed to post a successful record. Each team member was able to contribute in some way. Chris Peters provided offense when it was needed, while J.D. King and Brian Adkins helped the cause with reliable pitching. Seniors Zach Boyd and Chris Stiltner assumed the leadership position on the team, helping the younger players with their fundamentals. The team showed that although it was not easy playing with so few members, it was not impossible.

The Lady Tartan Softball team had a fun season. There were several new players on the team and they all learned their responsibilities on the field. Coach Shannon and Coach Lauderback were ready for their second season as coaches and made a lasting impact on the players leading them to the sectional championship game held at Symmes Valley. The Ladies stayed tough through ups and downs during the season, but they couldn't have done it without the seniors: Ashley, Jessie, Annie and Heather. Everyone looked to them for guidance and they were there to provide it. The upcoming seniors and the rest of the team are prepared to play hard to make next year a success.

National Honor Society

The experienced National Honor Society members stand with dignity after the ceremony. They had accomplished what they had set out to do this year.

The new inductees finally get the recognition they've worked hard for. This bunch will make our school proud!

Mr. Shope speaks nothing but encouraging words as this year's guest speaker. Mr. Shope proved to be a great role model throughout the year.

Knowledge, Service, Character and Leadership are all qualities that a National Honor Society member must obtain. In every school, many students have a couple of these characteristics but few actually make the cut. At East, we are honored to have as many as we do. East continues to be an example to those who are in our community and those surrounding us. We have 11 new members and 5 experienced members representing our school in every aspect of life. Those honored students who have been above and beyond every expectation will not let anyone down and will certainly succeed in their future. We definitely have a solid understanding of what leadership and character is all about!

Before the ceremony, the Madrigals sing a fitting song "The Good Lord Bless and Keep You". This song was a proper encouragement to all who attended the induction ceremony.

The senior members wait anxiously to get to tap the new members. Luckily, patience was always their strong point!

New members listen eagerly to Mr. Shope shortly after being inducted. No matter what, these kids always show respect.

Every new member has to say a pledge to remain loyal to their high standards. Both senior and junior members will stay true to their word.

Lyle and Kenny induct their good friend, Dan Downing.

Jessie King was humbled to be among the first to get tapped.

Zach Boyd worked hard this year to be inducted.

Heather Stevens received the Christopher Dunham award in band.

Dan Downing, Chris Peters, and Brett Enz received the Archie Griffin sportsmanship award.

Band

Few groups at East are as successful as the Tartan Regiment Marching Band. They continued to keep that reputation with their work this year. This year marked Mr. Scott Brehm's third year and the awards proved that they are still going strong.

The theme of the show this year was "The Tell-Tale Heart" by Edgar Allan Poe. As always the awards were many. Winning Overall Top Band four times, Overall Top Percussion five times, and Best Marching in Class three times. The Tartan Regiment also received an excellent rating at the OMEA State Finals Competition.

The Blue and White Competition, the marching band competition hosted by the Regiment, went very well. The Marshall U. Marching Thunder performed in exhibition and the Thunders percussion marched out onto the field with the Tartan Regiment.

Mr. Brehm called it a "good year", and, looking at the results, you can say that it sure was.

It's Not Easy Being Champions!

The 2003-2004 Madrigal year was a success. Walking away with the awards such as best show concept, best choreography, best vocals and best combo was very exciting. Stephanie Skagens won best female soloist for class C while Sharon Tibbs, Ty Bear, Kristina Day, and Hannah Shope were awarded outstanding individual performer within the group. The most exciting achievement however, was getting GRAND CHAMPION at Grove City! That moment was special for the group, filled with tears, laughter and lots of hugs. The Madrigals hard work started off with choreography sessions with Mr. Legg, Dinner Theater, Christmas performances, and finally competitions. The twenty minute show opened with "Mail Medley" that consisted of "Mr. Postman", "Get Ready", and "Sign, Sealed, Delivered". Next was the guys number "Overnight Mail" followed by the ballad "P.S. I Love You". The parodies of "Soul Man" (Mail Man), "Whip It" (Ship It), and "Jump, Jive & Wail" (Sort, Stamp, & Mail) made up the next song. This years closer was "Destination Anywhere". Congratulations to Mrs. Mays and Mr. Brehm, who did an exceptional job directing this years Madrigals.

"Sort, Stamp & Mail" is full of energy. These girls always gave their all.

Robert, Lyle and Ty show their cowboy style during "Overnight Mail". These three always got a reaction from the audience.

Ashley Kennard and Zach Holbrook belt out "Destination Anywhere". These two seniors will be leaving us after graduation for a new "destination".

The Junior girls break it down during a jam session in the show. The experience the girls brought to the group proved to be helpful.

Ty Bear and Kelly Porter sing their hearts out on stage. This duo worked hard all year long.

At the end of the show you can tell that everyone had been working hard. The Madrigals never failed to "deliver" a great show.

PROM COMMITTEE

Prom 2004

"Take My Breath Away"

Every girl dreams of Prom night. The perfect dress, amazing hair and beautiful make-up. The guys, on the other hand, just want to have fun. The prom committee stressed over decorations, glasses and food. All the worries paid off as the couples started to arrive at the Elks Country Club. The theme "Take My Breath Away" was definitely appropriate because the girls looked beautiful and the guys were just glad to have one of them on their arm. The dinner was a delicious buffet from the Elks. Afterwards, the teens filled the dance floor and many didn't stop until the announcement of the King and Queen. It came as no surprise when they announced Boomer Brown and Ashley Adkins as the winners. After-prom was held at Sunset Lanes. There was pizza, subs, snacks and desserts for everyone. As a new addition, a student based band along with Mr. Sidle was there. They played familiar tunes and had the crowd singing along. After all was said and done, prom was an amazing experience for everyone. The Prom Committee and Junior class would like to thank everyone who helped make this night possible.

The prom committee worked hard preparing for that special night but they had time to have fun.

Josh and Corey hang out by the buffet line. They know how to party.

Tricia looks great in her Victorian style dress. The night turned out to be perfect for her.

Adam and Maddi stand by the gazebo for a perfect pose. They always looked good.

Mrs. Mays receives a crown for her enthusiasm at prom. She had just as much fun as the students.

The Dance

These guys had to take a break from dancing. They were dancing hard all night long.

Lacey Cottle, Britni McCann and Brett Enz look stunning in their prom attire. These 3 always cleaned up nice!

Kristina and Cara grab a quick snap shot at the dance. These best friends had a blast that night.

Boomer Brown and Ashley Adkins share a dance as our Prom Queen and King. Prom will be a special memory for both of them.

Andrew Craft shows off his profile at Prom. Andrew never had trouble when it came to showing off!

Holly and Gilby show their smiles at the dance. Since it was Gilby's senior prom, they made the most out of it.

Co-Valedictorian, Kenny Howell gives a quick speech for his classmates. This is the last time he will be with his classmates.

JD King, a co-valedictorian gives his speech with heart-felt emotion. He was a great student.

Salutatorian Brett Enz makes the most of his time at East. He had a blast during high school.

The school board members pose proudly after the ceremony. All of the good things that happened to East this year was because of these gentlemen.

May 23, 2004 marked a very special event in the lives of the students of class 2004. Starting out in kindergarten, they grew into pre-teens in middle school. As freshmen, this class faced hardships like everyone else. Clothes, boys and makeup were among the priorities for the girls while the "young men" shot the time talking about cars, girls and sports. Their senior year came before they knew it and now it's time to move on. Colleges and careers are on the minds of all East grads as they march across the stage to receive their diplomas.

The lives of the students will change dramatically but at least the staff at East can let go and be encouraged. They taught these young adults well and are sure they will make it in the real world.

Mr. Decamp proudly announces the graduating class of 2004 to the audience. Our principal never had a problem showing off his students!

Tricia Hurley, Kristina Day, Cara Welch and Stephanie Skeens are the junior class officers who get to help with graduation. These girls will enter their senior year with confidence and motivation from the class of 2004.

Graduation

Chris, Sara and Ginny smile while waiting for the ceremony to start. Nerves are always jumping before the big event.

Some of the senior guys stand with pride right before the ceremony. The personality of these boys will be missed next year.

Mrs. Mays directs the mixed students during the graduation song. The seniors couldn't help but get a little emotional.

A group of seniors make room for one last memory before heading into the gym. These girls were like sisters and it's always hard to say good bye.

Stacy Darby, Nikki Damron and Amanda Biars wait patiently in the cafeteria. These seniors were anxious to graduate.

It's Not Easy Saying Good-bye!

Travis and Ginny pose outside after graduation. For best friends, these moments are always the hardest.

Stacy Talbert and Emily Poling say farewell to High School with confidence. Votes prepared both of them for what lies ahead.

JD King walks confidently to his seat. Being a valedictorian, this day was extra special for him.

Gilby, Dan, and Derek huddle one last time as seniors. These 3 already have plans for next year.

Graduate Josh West remembers all the good times he had at East High School. The graduating class brought a lot to our school and will never be forgotten!

Congratulations Class of 2004!
Good Luck!

Dear Brett,

Someone wrote, "A child doesn't get up in the morning and say, to himself, I think I will be a blessing today. The child is already a blessing!" A blessing from God. Brett, you have always made us proud beyond our expectations. As you go out and meet new challenges, remember, God and your parents will always be there. We Love You, Mom and Dad.

I am so proud of you and you have accomplished so much!
 You have worked very hard for many years now
 So, look ahead and achieve your goals in life...
 Make prudent decisions and become stronger from Your mistakes and disappointments... We all have Them and the choices that we make as an adult fire our own responsibility and will determine our destiny...
 For everyone, life is full of ups and downs so luck away
 The bad times and let your fondest
 Memories make you smile within... be true to Yourself and make every day count...
 Happiness is out there and you deserve it so
 Just reach out and take it!!!!
 Love Always,
 Your best friend,
 Mom

Star Cards

Jessica Eichenlaub is the proud winner of a home stereo system. This young lady was among the few lucky to win because of her star card.

Jessica Kingery holds her new digital camera. This young lady won more than one item!

The big winner was Katie Peters. She got to take a flat screen TV and a DVD player!

Mrs. Mays was the lovely announcer of the Star Card Winners. She never fails to show the kids enthusiasm!

Congratulations goes out to all those Star Card recipients who won something at the assembly. It really does pay to be in school after all!

It's Not Easy Being THE TARTAN IDOL!

Starting out with 13 contestants, the competition began. Judges Mrs. Mays, Mr. Enz and Mr. Brehm were hard on the brave souls critiquing their every note, move, and pitch. 3 lucky finalists finally competed for the title at an assembly in the gym. Live performances were given by each singer and the audience voted.

When the voted were in Mrs. Mays let anticipation drip from the air. And the winner is.... Kristen Sherman! The crowd went wild as she gave her victory performance.

Congratulations to all who participated!!!

Of course, nothing could have happened without the help of our camera girl! Tricia was always on the ball!

To give Robert a hand, Shawn Eggers played the piano during his performance. Shawn didn't let Robert down!

The first performance during the finals was given by Candace Cassidy. She made it here by the Wild Card vote.

Robert Schworzner sang his heart out after Candace. He was definitely a crowd pleaser, singing to some ladies in the first row!

The last (but certainly not least) performer was Kristen Sherman. She was filled with excitement when they announced her as the winner!

(left) The 3 finalists wait patiently to learn who the first ever Tartan Idol is. All 3 students were winners in the end!

CONGRATULATIONS GRADS

The 2004 Tartan "Spirit" Yearbook, printed by Taylor Publishing Company, issued 165 copies and sold for $34.00. The book measures 7 and 3/4 by 10 1/2 and contains 120 pages. The Headlines, Body Copies, and Captions were mostly written in Snooze font.

The 2004 yearbook staff would like to thank Alan Swank, our sales representative, for his assistance and most of all patience in the production of the yearbook. We thank the faculty and staff for such a memorable school year. Most of all we would like to thank Mrs. Jennifer Jones, our advisor for such a successful yearbook. It started out rough, but it was fun.
