Foreword

"Grant to fathers prosperity and sanctity of the family, to mothers success in their mission of rearing their children."

These Our Holy Father's words, taken from the Holy Year Prayer, have recalled to the Memories staff the importance of the family as a unit in community, parish and home life. Therefore it is hoped that Centralites of today and yesterday, turning the pages of this edition or Memories, will relive the happiness of their high school days and realize anew that faith is the bond from which unity springs, at home, at school - everywhere.

It is the wish of the staff that this yearbook serve not only as a record of the year's memories but also as a reminder that only by a constant practice of real Christian family living can Catholic youth hope for a strongly preserved personal faith.

Father Klinec officiates at the Enthronement of the Sacred Heart in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dadosky.

Mr. Dadosky is an alumnus of the former St. John's Business College in Holy Redeemer Parish, Portsmouth, while Mrs. Dadosky and five of their eight children are graduates of St. Mary High School.

Mindful of the ever-present need, especially in world today, of family unity and sanctity in the h we, the staff of "Memories," dedicate our 1951 yeark to the Holy Family, always the model and ideal. Jesus, Mary, and Joseph guide and protect us as spiritual children of that holy union.

The Most reverend michael J. ready
Bishop of Columbus

Ever since we can remember, Monsignor Goebel has been our inspiration to and our example of a holy life. Under his careful direction we were taught religion every week for eight years.

During the past four years Monsignor Goebel has taken a less active part in our school life. But we are not unaware that this has also meant an increase in his prayers for us and for the success of every project in the parish.

We Present Our Superintendent ...

The cares of parish life have not weighed so heavily upon Monsignor Casey and Father Klinec as to drown the enthusiasm of their keen interest, which stimulates school affairs, and their quiet humor enlivening every occasion. Their greatest joy is in administering the Sacraments to the faithful of their parishes. Centralites take just pride in the priestly bearing of their spiritual guides.

Though the zeal of the two pastors, the Enthronement of the Sacred Heart in the home and the pilgrimage of the Our Lady of Fatima statue into family circles have served to encourage Christian family living and have cemented the bond between parish and home.

SE:ATED, the Right Reverend Monsignor Joseph R. Casey, Pastor of Holy Redeemer STANDING, the Reverend Julius G. Klinec, Pastor of Se. Mary

The Family goes school

The Christian father and mother of children will not only people the earth but the Kingdom of Heaven.

Eagerness and zest, the usual attributes of freshmen, characterize St. Mary's Class of 1954 Good sports in the business of being new comers in high school, the class combined forces splen. didly in writing and presenting the Christmas play for the December Parent-Teachers' meeting. Real scholarship within the ranks will be a constant incentive to class competitions and excellence in studies throughout their years in high school.

The freshman class of Holy Redeemer is a well-liked and dignified group, neither noisy, troublesome nor inert. Much can be told of them for they have shown us just what they are capable of. They are crowding the honor roll, they have enthusiastic leaders and have demonstrated what well-organized class activity can produce. Let's hope they don't change.

The magic word "home"! How it quickens the heartbeat wherever we may be. Rev. John J. Walde

The Holy Redeemer sophomore class is small in number. They are known for their ability to carry out their ideas in a quiet manner. This characteristic of quietness stands out in a school where highpitched activity resounds from first bell to last. The sophomores, as a class, are beginning to pull together and show promise that they will bring forth many latent talents.

Father Benedetti leads the sophomores in a prayer to the Holy Ghost for the necessary enlightenment.

Christmas in the missions of the South was merry because of the gifts made by loyal juniors under the direction of Sister M. Mathia.

All too ready to take over leadership in school activities as next year's seniors, the juniors of St. Mary's willingly show their desire by enthusiastic greetings and encouraging smiles. The boys, limited in number, are not to be outdone in anything, even by the unusual feminine vigor in the class. The last edition of the Mariax was put out by this encrgetic group and hailed as a great success. May their aspirations and diligence carry them to greater leadership and new achievements!

The family is very specifically an interest of the Church. President Truman

The junior class of Holy Redeemer has paved its own way through high school and has made a very original name for itself. They have always been known for their aggressiveness, originality, hubbub, and uproar. They are greatest in number of all the classes and are lacking in no abilities nor talents. As a group they are likable; it is hard to subdue their checriness.

Jean Philipps voices an opinion during an American History discussion, led by Lawrence Hartlage.

Round Table Groups Stress Mission Study

The C.S.MI.C. Round Tables are formed by a group from each class, who are interested in missionary work at home and abroad. Meetings are held at a designated time each week, and the groups discuss mission articles taken from the official C.S.M.C. magazine, The Shield. In order to receive credit toward the Paladin Award each group must have twelve meetings per year. A chief conducts the meetings, and a scribe keeps a record of attendance and of reports on the topics chosen. Some of the mission lands discussed this year included Haiti, China, Korea, India, and Japan.
Beginning their first year at the Round Table the sophomores, under the guidance of the C.S.II.C. moderator, Sister Mathia, have enthusiastically taken part in mission study.
For the majority of the juniors this is the second year of Round Table work. They, too, follow the works of missionaries in the United Stares and in foreign lands.

Closing their last year of Round Table, the seniors, now complecing thrce years of mission study, feel not only that they have become acquainted with missionary work from one end of the world to the other, but that they have benefited by public discussion and the expression of personal viewpoints. In view of these advantages they hope to be alle in the future to live up to the Crusader's ideals of prayer, study and sacrifice.

A School Paper Calls For Highest Effort

What's new at school? The Marian staff at St. Mary's keeps fellow students up-to-date by recording the what, when, where, who, why, and how of school activities. Four times a year editors, news writers, typists, and artists join forces to put out an issue that "clicks."

Associate Editor, Joc Dold thinks deeply as he applies world problems to school life.

Alumni Editors Jerry Price and Betty Born, and Feature Editors Joseph Piccolo and Marilyn Lipker compare notes.

Editor Mary Pasturzak looks over a news article while Art Editor Patricia Haffner draws on a stencil and Mary Clare Binder checks the C.S.M.C.

Business Managers Howard Lindner and Franklin Dadosky take on Paul Stamm's help at the mimeograph.

If one likes to be worshipped with envy and meek admiration (and what boy doesn't?) then the altar boy has more than his wish. For little girls follow him breathlessly with wide blue eyes as he minces and marches and bows during High Mass.
His schoolfellows envy him too: for ringing those teasing snatches of music on the chimes, and for leading processions with candles and cross; but especially for swinging the golden censer, and knowing the guarded mystery of incense, that magical trick of producing a great cloud of sweetsmelling smoke with seemingly nothing but a piss of the hand.
So important is this little surpliced jumping jack, that Canon Law forbids the priset to start the Mass without him. The Mass can never be a private devotion that priests can say alone, but always and ever it is a public act

Assisting the priests in the daily sacrifice of the Mass, St. Mary servers willingly perform their sacred duties with promptness and dependability. Early Masses, evening devotions, May Crowning and other religious exercises may sometimes cost a server those few last winks in the early morn or a change in plans, but such a sacrifice for Our Lord is none too great.

HIGH SCHOOL SERVERS-Left to rigut: IV. Boots, Msgr. Casey, G. McCormack, K. Hartlage, I. Savin, L. Hartlage, D. Sand, T. Haley, C. Wamsley, G. Fisher, P. France, J. Fleming, L. Gerken, D. Eck, G. Russell, R. Albrechr, G. Cassidy, T. Fleming, W. Banchy, J. Brown, G. Picrron, M. Doyle.

There is no higher honor nor greater glory than assisting the celebrant at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. These Holy Redeemer boys have served faithfully, some of them for e:ght years. Neither rain nor snow, not even the memorable Thanksgiving blizzard hin hindered them from their offices at evening devotions, holy hours, and all daily and Sunday Masses.
of solemn worship offer in unison by the universal Church. That is why it does not matter if the pews be dark and empty, as they often are on weekdays at the carly Hasses . . . it does not matter so long as the acolyte is knecling at the altar step. He is the substitute and symbol of the rowering universal Catholic Church. . . . The entire Mystical Christ is there in unsuspected miniature.
And when the church is crowded on a busy Sunday morning, it is still the altar boy who answers for the silent congregation in the creaking pews. It is he who brings up gifts in the name of the people. And when the priest turns round to beg them pray that his sacrifice and theirs be acceptable to Heaven, who knows they may be lost in long novenas, and pay the priest no heed at all. But the altar boy pipes up a prayer in their common stead. He answers the Suscipiat.

Mary tells us that it is the supreme task of every mother to rear her child so that Christ will shine forth in his soul.

Msgr. Joseph R. Casey

At the annual May Crowning, the students of Holy Redeemer School proceeded up the center aisle flanked by the servers bearing blue vigil lights. The junior girls received the floral offerings of the girls, and boys and, last of all, of the seniors, clad in cap and gown. The flowers were laid at the feet of the statue of Our Lady symbolizing the act of consecration by which the Seniors dedicated themselves to her service and love. After the actual crowning by a senior, there is a sermon and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The Holy Redeemer Girls' Choir has been noted throughout the year for the excelint presentation of its chant and polyphony and also for the faithfulness of the members in lecing present for the various services. It's not hard to sing gloriously at Midnight Mass or for the Holy Wieek services, but it is another story to be present day after day at seven o'clock to sing the daily High Masses. Yet the girls have been outstanding in their loyalty.

High School Girls' Choirs

The St. Mary's Girls' Choir chose as officers this year one member of each of the four high school classes: Shirley Williams, a senior, president; Janet Frantz, a junior, vice-president; Saundra July and Priscilla Bickel, sophomore and freshman secretary and treasurer, respectively. Vigorous practice at semi-weekly rehearsals has insured the necessary polished performance that parishioners have learned to expect at Sunday Masses. Members have also taken turns singing in groups of four at seven o'clock High Masses on weekdays. Under the name of the Mari-Singers the girls also sang as a Glee Club group, making a fine appearance at the spring music recital.

The Holy Redeemer Pilgrim Virgin

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph R. Casey brought the small hand-carved statue of Our Lady of Fatima from Portugal, where he obtained it during his pilgrimage to Rome. Now the Pilgrim Virgin is making a sacred journey through the parish, stopping a night and a day in each home. On the First Saturday, the statue returns to the Church for the Fatima Devotions. Each family looks forward to the day when the image of Our Blessed Mother will come to their home, and long after she has left, they relive the precious hours in pictures and memories. Already the Pilgrim Virgin has become a beloved tradition in Holy Redeemer Parish.

The Guardians of the Pilgrim Virgin Scarue are volunteers who take the statue from home to home and recite the rosary and prayers in the home they take the statue from and again in the home they take the starue to. Each evening, two of these faithful girls quiedy go abour their duties and do a highly meritorious act which involves sacrifice and fidelity. Pictured at left are: Front row: M. Wasil, J. Bauer, A. Coyle, B. Burke, R. Oberling. Second rove: R. Middlecamp, M. Burk, C. Simpson, A. Bendinelli, M. Banchy, S. Davis. Third row: L. Wasil, M. Bendinelli, P. Tose, M. Simpson, M. Gavin. Fourth row: J. Mr . and Mrs. George Banchy have been coming to school plays for years and still have a few more years to go before the youngest of their twelve children has graduated. Here, shown with their parents, are William, Mark and Mary Ann.

"I always return to the land of my birth, Feeling prouder than ever before."

In a musical tale that begins with a rose festival and ends with preparations for "a joyful combination of riches and romance," one might expect that events would follow one another at a smooth, harmonious tempo. And surely they would have, had it not been for the wiles of Count Sergius von Popova, leader of a plot against the King and Queen of Eurolania and their royal family. Of course ir took two clever Americans to rurn the calules, thus capsizing his cuil plans and winning for themsclies two lovely btides.

Both schools sent delegations to the meeting of the Ohio High School Specch League in Columbus, October 1t. Cpper left: The St. Mlary representatives were Edward Hock, Carherine Foster, Ruth Scherer, lirna Hansman and Jance Frantz. Hbove: Holy Redecmer's dramatic club sent Mary Ann Bendinclli, Barbara Vitey, William Boots, Frances Tannian, Lawrence fartlage. Thomas Gavin, :an Phillips, Linda Brusart ard Lois Wasil. One \% the outstanding events af the Conference was a one-act play' presented arena sicle. Une of the results of :he meeting was that the Holy Redecmer . Masquers presented a workshop arena one-act play "Rehearsal," directed by Frances Tannian. Robert Albreche (left) is the escaped convict who hides in an abandoned barn where Carol Simpson recites Shakespeare, as the audience sits in a circle about the "stage."
The traditional Freshman Christmas entertainment at St. Mary's this year was an original play by Johanna Orlett, "A Gift for the Little King." The leading role of Micok, a shepherd boy, was taken by Vincent Catree, shown here with his faithful dog, Beri.
Lower left: Even the magic cat says a prayer before the opening curtain of "Cinderclla." Below: The "gentle" queen makes up under close scrutiny.

Head Conch Ora F. Tussey, graduare of Eastern State Teachers College, has been director of athlerics at Central since January. 19+9. Besides his activities as coach and teacher, Mr. Tussey has taken grear interest in the morale of the whole high school and has implanted his friendliness and understanding in the heart of every: student in Central High.
It was a sad dav when Uncle Sam called him from Central blue back to Navy blue for the second semester.

Central 0 - Raceland 32
The firse foothall game of the 1930 scason ended with a defeat for the sparse Central Cationic puad. Raceland. a strong Kentucky ream, literally ran ower the Titans and outclassed them in every department.

Contral 12-Washingron to
This contest showed great improvement for the Central syuad and was much closer than the seore indicated. Standouts were K. Hartlage and France on offense, while T. V'amsas and Dadosky shone on defense.

\text { Central } 13 \text { - Hillsboro } 27

The Titans, plagued be injuries, came out on the shore end. Touchdowns were seored by Gill on a pass from $k$. Hartlage, and by Hartlage himself from 16 yards.

Central 0 - Chesape:ake 27
Trailing 7-0 at the half, the Titan team rebounded and suffered another defear. Playing without the services of Porginski, who had had his ankle broken in the previous gane. Central was hampered in the offensive.

Central 6 - Waverly 32
Central traveled oo Waverly and met a strong Tiger tean who outplayed the Tïtans. Frank Perri scored the lone couchdown, which resulted from a 15 -yard sprint.

Central 13 - Mckell 6

Classed as "underdog," Central journeyed to MeKell into the hills of Kentucky and emerged victorious for the first time. Eiver:one played well for the greater glory of the team. Frank Perri scored both of Central's touchdowns and K. Hartlage drop-kicked the extra point.

Central 20 - Liast 25
Fresh after their first win. the Titans played brillianty in every deparment with the exceprion of one-passing defenve. Frank Perri. the team's offensive workhorse. scored two rouchdowns. while Quarterback keny Hartlage made the other. Standouts on defense were Jim Vameas and Capr. lid l.awson.

Central 0 - L.ancuster B.I.S. 5
Playing on a wer, sloppy field at Municipal Stadium, the Titans came up against the strongest team of the season. Blocking and offensive playing were the game-winning tactics to which the lancaster team owed its victory:

Central 7-Clenwoud 27
Central again lacked in pass-defense, and thus lost by a large score. Jim Vamsas, plating the whole game, scored the lone touchdown on a $55-$-yard sprine. Frank Perri scored the extra point.

Central 6 - South Point 33

Starting off with a bang, the Pointers from Lawrence County scored 27 points in the first quarter and coasted the rest of the game. K. Hartlage seored the only touchdown resulting from an $80-\mathrm{y}$ ard run. Jim V:amsas again played good defensive ball for the Titans.

The Titan ream throughout a full and strenuous season showed perseverance and piled up an enormous number of points. Although victories were few and far between, Central fans are all convinced they had a wonderful team this ycar.
